

Axopar enhances a unique way of boating experience: Merging adventure with premium clothing and on-water gear

At BOOT Düsseldorf 2025, Axopar unveiled the complete Adventure Collection, featuring the Axopar clothing line in collaboration with Sail Racing and Axopar on-water gear in collaboration with Jobe Watersports. This partnership unites premium on-water equipment, technical apparel, and the innovative design of Axopar boats, offering a seamless and enhanced experience for boating enthusiasts.

The three iconic brands – Axopar, Sail Racing, and Jobe Watersports – all leaders in their respective fields, have joined forces and worked closely together sharing their vast experience to introduce the highly functional Adventure Collection, which is seamlessly integrated between these three brands and the products in the collection.

The Adventure collection was born of a shared passion and the commitment to bringing more boaters onto the water. The collaboration represents a dedication to innovation and exploration, embodying the spirit of adventure and freedom that is at the core of all three brands. The collection is a fusion of design, functionality, and passion that has not been seen before on the water. The Adventure Collection is a functional leisure collection of on-water gear and clothing, especially developed for the needs of boaters for time on or off the water.

Jan-Erik Viitala, Founding Partner at Axopar Boats shares his enthusiasm for the collaboration:

"Our vision was to create a unique collaboration offering top-tier products to our global community of Axoparians and fans. This partnership brings together on-water gear, clothing, and our boats into one cohesive collection, enhancing every adventure on the water. The Adventure Collection incorporates shared details and materials across boats, clothing, and gear, all designed with functionality in mind to deliver an immersive brand experience on the water. It's not only about owning a piece of gear or apparel; it's about embracing a lifestyle, championing a community, and joining a movement that celebrates exploration and the freedom to chart your own course."

The level of detail and cross-over of materials between the clothing, boats, and on-water gear is truly extensive. The Adventure Collection is about jointly designing unique products and also achieving a complete material fusion between all three brands. It incorporates a wealth of dedicated details and materials shared between our boats, clothing, and water sports gear, and not forgetting functionality, all in order to create an immersive brand experience on the water. The attention to detail, technology and detail transfer is so immense that you can only experience onboard to truly understand the depth of the transfer.

The collaboration is truly unique and trailblazing as for the first time ever the integration of gear is transferred extensively onto a range of boats, into the Axopar 29 range. The Axopar 29 will perfectly match the design and details of the Adventure collection, where each component complements the other.
